

AUTUMN FOTOPOULOS

Software Developer

PERSONAL PROFILE

Prior to beginning my journey in software development, I was a stay at home mom. I enjoyed the opportunity that staying at home with my children provided, as it taught me patience while using management skills to teach distance learning to a middle-schooler, assist in helping a toddler with a communication delay, and run my own wooden sign business. I choose software development due to a family member showing me what they had created at Nashville Software School. It inspired me to want to pursue a career in a field that would challenge but also allow me to be creative.
